SENATE CONFEREES REFUSE TO STRIKE WAR BOARD COMMITTEE FROM FOOD CONTROL BILL

DEADLOCK IS ABSOLUTE

HOUSE COMMITTEE STANDS BY THE PRESIDENT AND REFUSES TO MAKE ANY COMPROMISE.

By Special Wire to The Citizen.

WASHINGTON, July 31.The administration suffered a defeat today in the conference on the food control bill. Four out of seven senators refused to agree with house conferees that the committee on war expenditures should be cut from the bill. And the conference committee adjourned in an absolute deadlock. Hoke Smith, of Georgia, was the senator who moved to strike the war committee from the bill. This committee has met with opposition from President Wilson. Senator Smith told the conferees it had no place in the measure and could be considered at a separate time.

Nevertheless, Smith's plea failed. Only Chamberlain and Smith, of Southern California, voted with him. Kenyon, Page and Warren (all Republicans) and Gore, (Democrat) voted to retain the committee.

Before that, the senatorial conferees proposed to the house conferees that the provision that the committee consult with the President should be eliminated and that the committee be empowered merely to examine accounts. But the house members of the conference would not agree even to this. They stuck fast by the ad-

WASHINGTON, July 31.—Behind the petticoats of a spouse acquired for the purpose of evading draft will be no safe place for a slacker to hide. The young men who have thronged to marriage license offices since June 20 in the fond hope that the government would look upon them as exempt probably have thrown their hymenal efforts away.

ROCHESTER, July 31—Street thremometers registered 104 degrees at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The body of a woman, believed to be that of Mrs. Bertha Monnet, an inmate of the Rochester state hospital for the insane, who escaped from the institution Sunday night, was found in the Erie canal.

NEW YORK, July 31—Twenty-three deaths directly or indirectly due to the inprecedented heat wave now gripping this city was the toll for the day as reported by the police department and hospitals tonights. Sixteen deaths were directly caused by the high climb of the mercury. The other seven were drowning and ascribed in some way to the sweltering temperature.

All over the city persons were overcome and fell to the streets. Five hundred prostrations were reported. In Brooklyn 200 ambulance calls were turned in.

ALLIES SMASH AHEAD TO DRIVE THE ENEMY FROM BELGIAN COAST

Diplomacy too Slow to Reach Alien Slackers

SENATORS FAVOR SPEEDY AND CERTAIN METHOD OF COMPELLING ALIENS TO SERVE.

NOT FAIR FOR FOREIGNERS TO FATTEN IN AMERICA WHILE AMERICANS FACE THE ENEMY.

By Special Wire to The Citizen.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—"Diplomacy is too slow a method of gathering alien slackers beneath our battle flags," Senator Chamberlain told the senate today.

"We all know from past experience that when diplomatic negotiations are entered upon, they sleep the sleep that knows no waking. They may be concluded in six months, they may be concluded in six years, and they may not be concluded at all."

The statement came up in connection with a debate on the McCumber and Chamber resolutions. The first authorizes the President to start diplomatic procedures by which to draft all subjects of the allies now in this country. The second goes at it in a quicker and more drastic fashion. Senator Chamberlain said that he was quite sure his resolution was within international law. Senator McCumber said that he, too, desired haste, but was convinced that diplomacy must be used. Senator Lodge agreed with him.

Sentiment was strong that the alien slackers should not be allowed to reap fortunes here while American men were forced to fight for them. The debate was based on the best way of carrying out the design.

"There is no question but that aliens are now immune," said Senator Lodge.

"The only procedure is to arrange with our allies to suspend their treaties for this purpose. These countries will be glad to see their subjects fighting under some flag.

"The state department and the President can arrange the matter in a week."

TAKES LIFE PLEDGE AFTER FINE OF $100

W. P. SHIRA, OF NEW CASTLE, FOUND DRUNK NEAR ABANDONED CAR BY STATE POLICE.

W. P. Shra, a resident of New Castle, entered a plea of guilty yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace Barney Kemper to the charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. He paid a fine of $100 and the costs in the case and took the pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors for the remainder of his life.

Members of Troop D, State Police, discovered an automobile Monday night standing beside the macadam road, a short distance west of the barracks. There was no one in the car and no one in sight. The officers made an investigation and found a man lying in a fence corner, asleep and very drunk. The man was taken to the county jail for the night and the car to a garage.

Yesterday morning an information was made against the prisoner, who claimed to W. P. Shira, of New Castle, before Justice of the Peace Barney Kemper and he was given a hearing. Shira's wife came on from New Castle when she heard her husband was in trouble and assisted in getting the case adjudicated.

Under instructions from the state department, the state police are keeping a sharp lookout for automobile drivers who operate their cars while in an intoxicated condition and the penalty will be enforced wherever convictions are obtained. The alternative of a fine of $100 for the offense is one year's imprisonment.

More than 30,000 workmen are killed and 300,000 seriously injured each year in the industries.

APPEARS GREATEST OFFENSIVE OF WAR

FRENCH AND ENGLISH ADVANCE TO DEPTH OF ONE MILE ON FRONT OF TWENTY MILES.

GERMANS STRIKE BACK

CLOCKLIKE OFFENSIVE WILL BE RESUMED TODAY—MANY PRISONERS WERE CAPTURED.

By Special Wire to The Citizen.

LONDON, July 31—One of the biggest offensives of the war—aimed apparently to drive the Germans from the Belgian coast—was launched by the allied French and British forces on the Flanders front today. In terrific smashes the troops of Field Marshal Haig hurled back Prince Rupprecht's forces. On a wide front of approximately 20 miles, the Teutons were fought back for a distance of about a mile.

The offensive was launched with clocklike regularity. Both French and British did their share. The British captured LaBasseville in the first dash.

The French crossed the Ypres-Lille canal and took the German's first and second line defenses. "Objective gained," was the terse report of the British war office.

The Germans were not forced back without a gallant fight. Time and again the Teutons hurled themselves at the oncoming foes.

But their counter attacks were in vain. The British and French came on. Hundreds of prisoners were taken. The infantry attacks were made under one of the most violent barrage fires. For three days the allies had shelled the German line. Just before dawn today, under cover of a heavy fog, the allies pressed on. The attacks by both the French and British were simultaneous. The British took the first German line in the Ypres region. The advancing troops are continuing their onward rush. Artillery is being moved forward rapidly to aid the infantry. The British tanks are doing their part.

After the first line was reached the Germans began their resistance. Counter attack after counter attack was launched. Each was repulsed with heavy losses to the Teutons, according to the latest messages from the front.

The Germans poured a deadly machine gun fire on the advancing hordes. At first it was feeble and erratic. Then it became more accurate. These were silenced when the allies' artillery found the range. Tonight the allies are consolidating their positions. With the coming of dawn it is expected that the attacks will again be under way.

COMPANY L WILL NOT LEAVE TODAY; ORDERS LOOKED FOR ANY DAY

ORGANIZATION HAS RECEIVED TRANSPORTATION AND IS PACKED UP READY FOR TRIP.

EIGHT MEN PHYSICALLY DISQUALIFIED THREE CLAIM EXEMPTION AND THREE DESERT.

Rumors current on the streets yesterday that Company L, Sixteenth regiment, would leave today for the mobilization camp were denied by Capt. B. R. Williams last night. While all preparatons have been made for the movement of the company on short notice and transportation has been received, no orders have been received to break camp.

Eight men were disqualified physically and dropped from the roll yesterday. Three others claimed exemption which were allowed.

The cases of three deserters will likely be turned over to the Federal authorities after the company leaves the home station. This class of slackers will not escape easily.

ALLIES SMASH AHEAD TO DRIVE THE ENEMY FROM BELGIAN COAST

Diplomacy too Slow to Reach Alien Slackers

SENATORS FAVOR SPEEDY AND CERTAIN METHOD OF COMPELLING ALIENS TO SERVE.

NOT FAIR FOR FOREIGNERS TO FATTEN IN AMERICA WHILE AMERICANS FACE THE ENEMY.

By Special Wire to The Citizen.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—"Diplomacy is too slow a method of gathering alien slackers beneath our battle flags," Senator Chamberlain told the senate today.

"We all know from past experience that when diplomatic negotiations are entered upon, they sleep the sleep that knows no waking. They may be concluded in six months, they may be concluded in six years, and they may not be concluded at all."

The statement came up in connection with a debate on the McCumber and Chamber resolutions. The first authorizes the President to start diplomatic procedures by which to draft all subjects of the allies now in this country. The second goes at it in a quicker and more drastic fashion. Senator Chamberlain said that he was quite sure his resolution was within international law. Senator McCumber said that he, too, desired haste, but was convinced that diplomacy must be used. Senator Lodge agreed with him.

Sentiment was strong that the alien slackers should not be allowed to reap fortunes here while American men were forced to fight for them. The debate was based on the best way of carrying out the design.

"There is no question but that aliens are now immune," said Senator Lodge.

"The only procedure is to arrange with our allies to suspend their treaties for this purpose. These countries will be glad to see their subjects fighting under some flag.

"The state department and the President can arrange the matter in a week."

TAKES LIFE PLEDGE AFTER FINE OF $100

W. P. SHIRA, OF NEW CASTLE, FOUND DRUNK NEAR ABANDONED CAR BY STATE POLICE.

W. P. Shra, a resident of New Castle, entered a plea of guilty yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace Barney Kemper to the charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. He paid a fine of $100 and the costs in the case and took the pledge to abstain from the use of intoxicating liquors for the remainder of his life.

Members of Troop D, State Police, discovered an automobile Monday night standing beside the macadam road, a short distance west of the barracks. There was no one in the car and no one in sight. The officers made an investigation and found a man lying in a fence corner, asleep and very drunk. The man was taken to the county jail for the night and the car to a garage.

Yesterday morning an information was made against the prisoner, who claimed to W. P. Shira, of New Castle, before Justice of the Peace Barney Kemper and he was given a hearing. Shira's wife came on from New Castle when she heard her husband was in trouble and assisted in getting the case adjudicated.

Under instructions from the state department, the state police are keeping a sharp lookout for automobile drivers who operate their cars while in an intoxicated condition and the penalty will be enforced wherever convictions are obtained. The alternative of a fine of $100 for the offense is one year's imprisonment.

More than 30,000 workmen are killed and 300,000 seriously injured each year in the industries.

APPEARS GREATEST OFFENSIVE OF WAR

FRENCH AND ENGLISH ADVANCE TO DEPTH OF ONE MILE ON FRONT OF TWENTY MILES.

GERMANS STRIKE BACK

CLOCKLIKE OFFENSIVE WILL BE RESUMED TODAY—MANY PRISONERS WERE CAPTURED.

By Special Wire to The Citizen.

LONDON, July 31—One of the biggest offensives of the war—aimed apparently to drive the Germans from the Belgian coast—was launched by the allied French and British forces on the Flanders front today. In terrific smashes the troops of Field Marshal Haig hurled back Prince Rupprecht's forces. On a wide front of approximately 20 miles, the Teutons were fought back for a distance of about a mile.

The offensive was launched with clocklike regularity. Both French and British did their share. The British captured LaBasseville in the first dash.

The French crossed the Ypres-Lille canal and took the German's first and second line defenses. "Objective gained," was the terse report of the British war office.

The Germans were not forced back without a gallant fight. Time and again the Teutons hurled themselves at the oncoming foes.

But their counter attacks were in vain. The British and French came on. Hundreds of prisoners were taken. The infantry attacks were made under one of the most violent barrage fires. For three days the allies had shelled the German line. Just before dawn today, under cover of a heavy fog, the allies pressed on. The attacks by both the French and British were simultaneous. The British took the first German line in the Ypres region. The advancing troops are continuing their onward rush. Artillery is being moved forward rapidly to aid the infantry. The British tanks are doing their part.

After the first line was reached the Germans began their resistance. Counter attack after counter attack was launched. Each was repulsed with heavy losses to the Teutons, according to the latest messages from the front.

The Germans poured a deadly machine gun fire on the advancing hordes. At first it was feeble and erratic. Then it became more accurate. These were silenced when the allies artillery found the range. Tonight the allies are consolidating their positions. With the coming of dawn it is expected that the attacks will again be under way.

COMPANY L WILL NOT LEAVE TODAY; ORDERS LOOKED FOR ANY DAY

ORGANIZATION HAS RECEIVED TRANSPORTATION AND IS PACKED UP READY FOR TRIP.

EIGHT MEN PHYSICALLY DISQUALIFIED THREE CLAIM EXEMPTION AND THREE DESERT.

Rumors current on the streets yesterday that Company L, Sixteenth regiment, would leave today for the mobilization camp were denied by Capt. B. R. Williams last night. While all preparatons have been made for the movement of the company on short notice and transportation has been received, no orders have been received to break camp.

Eight men were disqualified physically and dropped from the roll yesterday. Three others claimed exemption which were allowed.

The cases of three deserters will likely be turned over to the Federal authorities after the company leaves the home station. This class of slackers will not escape easily.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappetr and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

PENN'A WILL SPEND 81 MILLIONS IN 2 YEARS

FIGHT FOR YOUR LIFE

Duty Demands Robust Health

Fight to get it and keep it

Fight—fight day in and day out to prevent being overtaken by ills and ails. Keep wrinkles from marring the cheek and the body from losing its youthful appearance and buoyancy. Fight when ill-health is coming with its pallor and pains, defects and declining powers. Fight to stay its course and drive it off.

But fight intelligently. Don't fight without weapons that can win the day for without the intelligent use of effective weapons the pallor spreads and weakness grows and a seemingly strong man or woman ofttimes becomes a pray to ills after all.

You will not find this class of persons in the hypoferrin ranks. No unhealthy, dull, draggy, droopy persons in that line. It is a hale, hearty, robust aggregation of quick-steppers who view life in a joyous frame of mind and are mentally and physically equal to any emergency. Hypoferrin stands for sound body and sound mind—it is the invigorating tonic of the times—powerful and unsurpassed as a health restorer, vitalizer and health preserver. Fight to hold the vigor of a sound body with hypoferrin or to stay the process of decay and restore health and strength—you win. This tonic of amazing, wonder-working properties has been approved by physicians as a restorer and safeguard of health. It is a thoroughly scientific preparation of the very elements necessary to tone up the stomach and nerves, to build strong, vital tissue, make pure blood, firm flesh and solid, active, tireless muscles.

Hypoferrin contains those mighty strength-producing agents, lecithin-and-iron peptonate, in a form best adapted to benefit the body and its organs. Its ingredients are absolutely necessary to the blood. In nine cases out of ten a run-down condition, sallow, pale complexions that "all in" feeling and frail bodies are due to lack of lecithin-and-iron peptonate in the system.

Your mental and physical strength and endurance depends upon a lecithin-and-iron peptonate laden blood; steady, dependable nerves and a healthy stomach. With these you can meet life at any angle.

This wonder tonic, hypoferrin, which is as perfect as science can get to nature, meets every essential demand of the human organism. It is safe and sure and a boon to run-down, worn-out men and women. Hypoferrin means nature's own way of bringing color to the cheeks, strength to the body and keeping the vigor and buoyancy of youth. The powder and paint way of effecting beauty is not needed by hypoferrin women and girls. Their blood, filled with nature's beauty stores, creates conditions that give firmness and grace to the body and the glow of health to the cheeks.

No need of going through life sickly and always feeling miserable in this age of medical science. Join the hypoferrin ranks. It puts into you the springy snap and vigor you ought to have and puts life into your body and mind that inspires the confidence that you confront the world on an equal footing with anyone.

Hypoferrin may be had at your druggist's or direct from us for $1.00 per package. It is well worth the price. The Antanel Remedies Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

MODEL FOR COUNTY ORGANIZATION AND DISTRIBUTION OF HOME DEFENSE POLICE DEPARTMENT OF GUARDS, POLICE & INSPECTION OF THE PENN'A COMMITTEE OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Home Defense Poliece Planned For Counties of Pennsylvania

ORGANIZATION WILL ACCEPT ONLY GOOD MEN NOT ELIGIBLE T OSERVICE IN THE ARMY.

IS AUTHORIZED BY LAW

HOME DEFENSE POLICE CALCULATED TO MAINTAIN TRANQUILITY DURING THE WAR.

The following plan for the organization of the Home Defense Police, authorized under the Act of Assembly, (Senate Bill No. 901) approved July 18, 1917, has been prepared and approved by the Department of Guards, Police and Inspection of the Committee of Public Safety of Pennsylvania.

JOHN C. GROOME,
Director.

Purpose—The Home Defense Police of Pennsylvania has been created to permit men who are residents of Pennsylvania, and who, by reason of age or dependent families, are unable to enter into active service of the United States in either the army, navy, marine corps or national guard, to volunteer such services as a well organized and efficient reserve of this sort might perform. Primarily, their duty will be to assist the local authorities in the preservation of order in the vicinity of their own homes, the protection of lives and of property from the destruction attending internal disorders in time of war.

Qualifications—Every Home Defense Policeman must be a citizen and resident of the State of Pennsylvania, in good health and of good habits. All men between the ages of 45 and 60 years, possessing the foregoing qualifications, are eligible. Men between the ages of 21 and 45 are eligible if married, also single men who are the support of dependents.

Plan of Organization—The enrolled membership of the Home Defense Police will be divided into local platoons or units in the different counties, the number of men in each unit depending upon local conditions. In cities of the first class the members will be under the command of the Chief of Police in townships of the first class under the command of the township commissioners. In all other communities the Home Defense Police will be under the command of the official person, or persons appointed by the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Each member must enroll in writing upon blanks to be furnished by the Department of Guards, Police and Inspection, giving his name, business and residence telephone numbers, a statement of previous military, naval or police experience, etc., and no application will be considered unless it is endorsed by the County Chairman of the Committee of Public Safety and approved by the Director of the Department of Guards, Police and Inspection.

Mobilization—There will be maintained on file in the office of the Officer in Command in each county a complete record of the members, addresses, telephone numbers, etc. Upon the issuance of an order for mobilization, each member affected thereby will be notified by his Platoon Commander at his home, if the order is issued at night or on holidays, and at his place of business at other times. He will be expected to respond immediately, and will be assigned to duty upon arrival at headquarters.

Training—Members of the Home Defense Police will be expected to present themselves for drill under competent military instructors when requested. In addition to military drills, the members will bei nstructed in riot drill, sending in fire alarms, operating police signal boxes, etc.

Authority and Equipment—Each member will be sworn in as a special officer, and as such will have all the powers of a police officer of cities of the first class. He will be supplied with a special badge, an arm band of identification, a policeman's billie and a whistle. The arm band will be worn only when the member is on active duty. It is against the law for anyone not in the army, navy, marine corps or national guard to wear any uniform similar to that of the United States.

Appointment of Platoon Commanders—The members of each platoon as soon as organized will be expected to nominate, for appointment by the officer in command of the county force, their respective platoon commanders. In view of the great importance of these selections, it is urged that the platoon exercise particular care therein, as upon those officers will depend not only the safety of the people living in the district served, but the lives of their men as well. Wherever possible, officers should be men of mature years who have had experience in the army, navy, marine corps, national guard or in police duty. In other words, they should be men who know how to command, and should not be selected merely on the score of personal popularity.

In order to secure the prompt confirmation of nominations it is suggested that the names of nominees be accompanied by statements concerning their business connections, public work, etc.

Interested persons should address Committee of Public Safety, Department of Guards, Police and Public Inspection, Finance Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

Ladies! Keep It on The Dresser

Few drops on corn or callus stops pain, then they lift off.

Your high heels have put corns on your toes and calluses on your feet, but why care now?

This tiny bottle holds an almost magic fluid. A genius in Cincinnati discovered this ether compound and named it freezone. Small bottles of freezone can be had at any drug store for a few cents. Never limp or twist your face in pain again, but get a bottle of freezone and apply a few drops on your tender, aching corn or callus. Instantly the soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so shriveled and loose that you lift it off with fingers.

Just think! You get rid of a hard corn, soft corn or a corn between the toes, as well as hardened calluses, without suffering one particule, without the slightest irritation of the surrounding skin. Just a touch of freezone on a sore corn gives instant relief.

Value of Experience.

There is no experience in any life which, if rightly regarded, rightly turned, and thereby wisely used, cannot be made of value; many times things thus turned and used can be made sources of inestimable gain; oftimes they become veritable blessings in disguise.—Waldo Trine.

Wild Life on St. John Island.

St. John is extremely interesting as the best remaining example of what the Virgin islands were like before their discovery by Columbus, for a goodly part of it is simply mountain and forest, where wild pigeons, parrots and other native birds abound. Its scientific interest is further increased by the fact that it was a stronghold of the Carib Indians, who have given their name to the whole region but are now extinct. On some of the rocks in the mountains of St. John there are very perfect and beautigul hieroglyphs left by these aborigines.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUGUST 1, 1917.

JUSTICE FOR THE SLACKER.

Picturesque justice seems about to overtake the slackers who evaded registration on June 5 to escape military service. These men will be rounded up and shot in right at the top of the draft lists, thus meaning they will be among the first called up for examination and among the first to perform the service they so heartily dread. The word has been passed that exemption boards will not be disposed to deal too leniently, either, with the ordinary claims for exemption that may be made by these slackers rounded up at the thirteenth hour.

The war department at Washington is sponsor for the statement that literally thousands of young men evaded registration. The department of justice has set its machinery in motion for their apprehension and punishment. Many of their names are known, it is said, and more are being divulged daily. Many of the informants are patriotic men who registered cheerfully and willingly, and who are disgusted at the example of friends and companions who failed to do so.

TRAIN RIDERS MUST MEDITATE IN PRISON

YOUTHS WERE HAULED FROM OUTGOING TRAIN BY EIGHTEENTH REGT. GUARDSMEN.

Frank Zarnick, Kenneth Christy and Ross Bolton, three Butler young men, under the age of 20, are serving 10 day sentences in the county jail on charges of trespassing on the railroads.

The young men were arrested last Sunday by the 18th regiment soldiers who are guarding railroad bridges in the Butler district. The prisoners were caught riding a freight train out of Butler. The guard stopped the train and took the young men off. They were then turned over to the officer in charge and marched to the jail.

Informations were made against the young men by Detective John Hodges, charging trespass. The lads are all natives of Butler and have been employed in local business houses as drivers of delivery wagons.

GUARDSMAN IN FALL FRACTURES HIS LEG

KENNETH KEAN, 18TH REGIMENT, HAD STEPPED ASIDE FOR A TRAIN AND LOST BALANCE.

Kenneth Kean, 20 years of age, member of Company C, 18th regiment, Pennsylvania Guard, on duty in the Butler district, met with a serious injury Tuesday morning when he fell from Bridge No. 1, which he was guarding, and fractured his leg.

The Dengler ambulance was called and the injured soldier was removed to the Butler County General hospital, where he is under the care of surgeons.

The accident happened at 1:45 in the morning. Kean stepped aside on the bridge to let a train pass and lost his balance, falling a distance of 15 feet.

PRESENT WHEAT HARVEST LATEST IN HALF CENTURY

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., July 31—The lateness of the harvest season this year in Fayette county has brought to light a record of dates on which the wheat harvest was started for the past 53 years and, the record, kept by John S. Patton, who lives near here, shows the present season the latest in over a half century. Mr. Patton says there was little variation in the harvest dates until the present year, which, he says, is one of the most remarkable years the farmers have ever experienced.

Very Unfortunate.

FIRE SHOT AFTER QUARREL.

George Miller, night engineer employed at the Independent Brewery, was arrested at 10:30 last night by Officer Aaron Fisvitz, of the city police force, on complaint of an Italian fireman, employed in the same plant with Miller. A charge of disorderly conduct was lodged against Miller, pending further investigation of the case this morning.

According to the story told by the police, the two men quarreled over some trivial matter. Miller is said to have fired a shot at the fireman which went wide of the mark and was the cause of a police call being sent in for an officer. Miller will be given a hearing this morning in police court.

"IT DID WONDERS FOR ME" DECLARES GEORGE R. LOBB

WASHINGTON, PA., MAN PAYS EXTRAORDINARY TRIBUTE TO NERV-WORTH.

The Nerv-Worth Druggist at Washington, Pa., has been the recipent of a very large number of signed Nerv-Worth statements. The following made to him a few days ago, is of striking value:

The E. C. Myers Drug Store—Nerv-Worth has certainly done wonders for me. For a number of years I was troubled with stomach trouble, nervousness and sleeplessness. I would lose so much sleep that I would feel unable to get up in the morning. I was weak and run down. Appetite bad. Filled with gas after eating. Had a kind of draggy feeling. My heart fluttered and thumped and caused me great anxiety.

I read in the papers what Nerv-Worth had done for others in cases similar to mine and concluded to try it. Before the first bottle was half done I noticed the beneficial effect. I commenced to get better and more restful sleep. Heart trouble wonderfully improved. My appetite and digestion improved. I began to gain in strength and the listless feeling left me. It put new energy into my system. HAVE GAINED 18 or MORE POUNDS SINCE COMMENCING TO USE NERV-WORTH. I have recommended it to many of my friends and acquaintances and give permission to publish this statement, that it may verify the statements of others.

Youth.

There is God's gift of youth, impressible, beautiful, glorious, divine. s for youth that the rest of us live; t is on their motions that we hang; t is for them that we labor, suffer, and endure; it is for them that we flout the ills of life; it is for them that we are blind to death. Youth,—wonderful youth,—so great a gift to possess, so infinitely greater a gift to perceive in boys and girls about you! —H. D. Sedgwick, in the Atlantic Magazine.

President's Flag.

It is usual in other countries to have a special ensign to designate the presence on a vessel of the ruler of the nation. President Arthur suggested such a flag in the United States in the early part of 1882, and, as his cabinet concurred in the suggestion, decided on the design of a blue ground with the arms of the United States in the center. The navy department ordered that this flag should be displayed at the mainmast of any vessel that bore the president. Arthur first used it in 1883.

Never Came Together.

"Time, and money, and the spending thereof," began the would-be philosopher, "never match up satisfactorily. When you have lots of time, you're dead broke. When you have a lot of coin, you can't even lay off to spend it."

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if Kidneys feel like lead, or Bladder bothers.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble. Agents, Redick & Grohman.

SAFE FARMING

HAY—THE UNCROWNED KING OF PLENTY

By P. G. HOLDEN.

IF YOU were to ask ten men to name the backbone of the nation it is likely that at least nine of them would declare it is the farm.

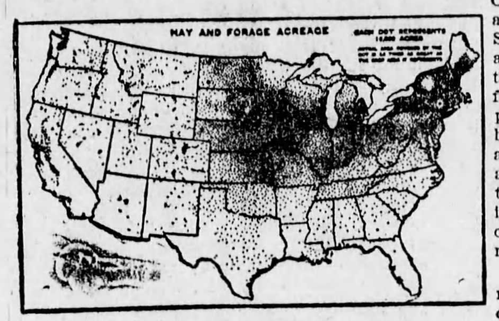
But if you were to ask these same ten to name the backbone of the farm, it is very possible that no two would give the same reply. It is to be doubted if any of them would name the one agricultural product which is the foundation of profitable farming.

If these ten men were farmers and hailed from as many portions of the country, it is probable that one would declare the backbone of the farm to be wheat; another would maintain it was corn; another oats; another cotton; another dairying; another beef cattle; another sheep; another hogs; another horses; the tenth probably poultry.

In expressing his opinion, each would be governed by the kind of farming in which he is engaged. Each would name the principal product of his individual farm, but none would have mentioned the only product common to all farms wherever situated. This product is hay.

Hay Common to All Farms.

There are many farms on which grain is not grown to any great extent. There are other farms on which but a few head of live stock are raised. Cotton is grown in only a portion of the United States. But hay forms a considerable part of the product of every farm unless it be in a portion of the cotton belt where much toil and persistent efforts are annually expended to keep it from growing—a practice that has cost the Southern states millions of dollars.



Hay Growing States Are Wealthy States.

Not only is hay the most common of farm crops, but it is the most necessary and beneficial. It is one of the most necessary, because it enters into the daily diet of every farm animal and every fowl. It is one of the most beneficial because it helps maintain soil fertility.

Hay is to the farm animal what bread is to the human race. There are many varieties of hay just as there are numerous varieties of bread, but hay in some form is relished by every animal just as bread is enjoyed by every human being.

Without hay it would be impossible to raise live stock successfully, and it is now generally admitted that live-stock raising is essential to the preservation of soil fertility. Live stock farming is "Safe Farming."

Not only by making live stock raising possible does hay assist in building up soil fertility, but in the case of clover and alfalfa, it is a direct fertility builder, as it adds nitrogen and humus to the soil.

Worth More Than Gold.

Hay is the Uncrowned King of Plenty; a prince of the House of Prosperity, whose garnered gold outvalues by nearly ten times the riches of all the precious metal mined in United States.

The total acreage of hay in the United States is exceeded only by that of corn, is nearly double that of wheat and two and one-half times that of cotton. Its value equals that of the cotton crop, is exceeded only by the value of the corn crop, is nearly one-third larger than the value of the wheat crop, and exceeds the combined value of all other grain crops.

Wherever hay is grown, there will be found live stock. Wherever there is live stock there will be found fertile soil, good homes, prosperous communities, progressive towns and cities.

Examine the accompanying map of the United States showing the hay and forage acreage and you will note that the large hay-producing states are without exception the wealthy states. The relative hay production of the various states is an accurate barometer of the relative wealth of the states.

Sheer and Cool in French Voile.

Summer frock of pale pink French voile. It is trimmed with braid and a satin sash and collar.

There is a lovely summery air about this little frock of dainty rose pink French voile. There are braided pockets and a satin belt and collar to make it decorative, but the general idea is one of extreme simplicity. The skirt is tucked and attached to a plain long-waisted bodice. In medium size the frock requires 6⅞ yards 36-inch material.

The most inexperienced seamstress will have no difficulty whatever in duplicating the model, if the directions are followed carefully and the construction guide referred to whenever a doubt arises.

Begin with the waist and gather the upper and lower edges of front and back between "T" perforations. Sew yoke to front and back, notches, center-backs and front edges even. Close under-arm seam as notched. Turn hem in front at notch. Large "O" perforations indicate center front. Lap right front on left, center-fronts even; tack together at lower edges. Close front seam of belt; sew to lower edge of waist, center-fronts and center-backs even; bring single small "o" perforation at upper edge of belt to under-arm seam.

Face the collar and sew to neck edge, then take the skirt and close the back seam. Form tucks, creasing on crosslines of slot perforations; stitch upper tuck 2½ inches from folded edge and lower tuck 3¼ inches from folded edge. Turn hem at lower edge of skirt on small "o" perforations; gather upper edge between "T" perforations. Sew skirt to lower edge of belt, center-fronts and center-backs even; bring small "o" perforation in skirt to large "O" perforation in belt.

Now, close sleeve seam as notched and gather lower edge. Face cuff, roll lower part over on outside on small "o" perforations. Sew cuff to sleeve as notched. Sew sleeve in armhole, notches and small "o" perforations even, easing in any fulness between notches. Hold the sleeve toward you when basting it in the armhole.

The large "O" perforations indicate the front of pocket sections. Gather upper and lower edges of under section between "T" perforations. Join outer section to under section matching notches at side and lower edges and drawing gathers at lower edge to fit. Sew pocket to lower edge of belt between indicating small "o" perforations.

Ribbon may be used for the sash, which is arranged around the waist, crossed in the back and tied in front.

Two-Piece Skirt With High Waist-Line.

Made in two pieces and gathered to a straight belt of self-material, this skirt of dark blue crepe de chine makes an ideal model for summer wear.

A graceful skirt for seasonable wear is pictured here, developed in dark blue silk crepe de chine. It is a two-piece model with high waistline and straight lower edge. The fastening is effected at the left side and the top of the skirt is gathered to be finished with a straight belt of a heading. The pockets are in pointed effect, though the pattern also provides for patch pockets. In medium size the skirt requires 4 yards 44-inch material.

By carefully following the cutting guide the home dressmaker will avoid mistakes and save material. First, take the crepe de chine and fold it carefully; place on the cutting table, or any flat surface. Now, place the front and back gores, with triple "TTT" perforations on the lengthwise fold, as shown in the guide. To the first of the back gore place the pocket sections, letting the large "O" perforations rest on a lengthwise thread. The belt rests on the fold below the pocket sections.

A number of very pretty skirts for summer wear are made of gingham. Some are trimmed with cross-stitch embroidery, especially when the check is small and can be worked over. Others are ornamented with feather-stitching and many of the other old-fashioned forms of handwork. They are extremely pleasing to the eye, however, and suggest obedience to the recommendations of economy made by governmental heads in these times of war.

The skirt pictured here is of such good lines that it may be fashioned of woolen materials for wear during the fall.

SAFE FARMING

A BUNCH OF SHEEP ON EVERY FARM

By P. G. HOLDEN.

IN GOOD farming allow nothing to go to waste.

On many farms every year grass and weeds around buildings, in barn lots, along fences and roads, in corn or stubble fields, go to seed and become waste material. These weeds could be turned to good account if there was a bunch of sheep to eat them.

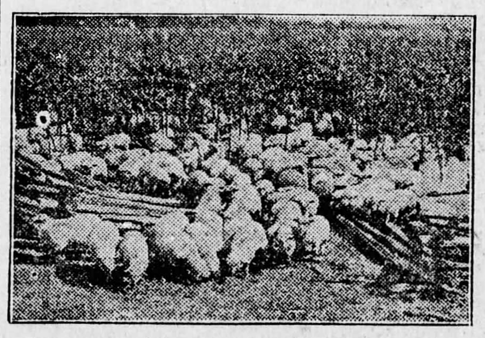
No farm animal will respond more readily to care and feed than sheep. They need but little attention if such as they require is given at the right time.

There is a world-wide shortage of sheep. The consumption of mutton is on the increase. The wool supply of the world is about exhausted. Fat lambs and wool bring good figures. Not on account of the war, but from a genuine demand of the people. There is wonderful interest in sheep-growing everywhere, but the demand for mutton and wool is so great that producers cannot meet it. There should be sheep on every farm.

Sheep need a change of pasture. Turning them from one field into another furnishes this change and keeps the sheep healthy.

Expensive housing is unnecessary. Warm shelter is essential only when the lambs are very young. The roof is the important part of the sheep house. Keep the sheep dry during the winter season and the fleece will provide the warmth. A bunch of good ewes will return good profits. Their requirements are simple and their returns in fleece and fat lambs will surprise you.

There is no better winter feed for the ewes than good silage and alfalfa hay. A good ewe will give more milk for the feed consumed, than will the best dairy cow. Her lamb will do the milking and by converting the milk into fat lamb, the farmer can get much more per one hundred pounds for the ewe's milk than for the cow's, and in addition, the ewe furnishes a fleece each year to sell.



Western Lambs on Soy Bean and Corn Pasture.

Care should be taken not to feed sour or moldy silage to sheep. It will kill them. Large ewes raising lambs can be fed sweet silage up to four or five pounds per day, after they have become accustomed to it. During the winter before the lambs arrive, the ewes, if in good condition at the start, need only a light silage ration with alfalfa hay and corn fodder. Sometimes a feed of bright straw is relished by the ewes.

Sheep kept in muddy yards for long periods are almost sure to get sore feet. Give them dry footing and there will be no trouble.

Raising Lambs Profitable.

Select a bunch of rugged "mutton-shaped" ewes and mate them in the fall with a purebred sire of good form and fleece. Have the lambs born in March if there is plenty of good feed for the ewes and warm shelter for the lambs. Otherwise the lambs had better not arrive until later when the weather is warmer and the ewes can get some grass to increase their flow of milk.

Some farmers have the lambs born in January or February and fatten them for earlier markets. This necessitates much care, abundant feed and warm shelter, but it is a profitable business when well managed.

When the lambs are ten days old they will begin eating grain and hay. Fix a creep for them so they can have a trough apart from their mothers, give them some wheat bran and cracked corn and continue to feed them all they will eat while on pasture, if they are to be fattened and sold when three or four months old. The best time to sell the lambs is before they are one year old.

Some good farmers allow the ewes and lambs to graze during the summer with little or no grain, wean the lambs in August and turn them into the standing corn. There is no place where a lamb will fatten faster than in a cornfield eating grass and weeds and weed seeds and the lower blades of corn.

Lambs should not be kept on old pastures that have been grazed by older sheep. There is danger of stomach worms. However, if tobacco dust or stems are kept before the sheep at all times, they will not be troubled with internal parasites.

Three hundred farmers' reports give $3.69 as the average cost for keeping a ewe and lamb as against $10.15 as the average return in wool.

Nearly all good sheepmen keep a few of the best ewes each year to add to the ewe flock and take the place of the older and discarded ewes.

Experiments with blight-killed and healthy chestnut trees have proved that the wood of the blight-killed tree, when peeled, can be used without hesitation wherever chestnut wood is utilized. Foresters declare that lumber sawed from blight-killed trees is just as good as that from healthy trees.

CUSTER'S LAST FIGHT

BY

BUFFALO BILL

FROM "TRUE TALES OF THE PLAINS"

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY WILLIAM F. CODY

ANY series of stories of Indian war would be incomplete without giving an account of the campaign of 1876 against the northern Sioux and their allies from the south, the Sioux and Cheyennes, an affair known as the Custer campaign. The catastrophe that overwhelmed the gallant General Custer and his brave command was an episode that will live forever in Indian history.

In the summer of 1874 General Sheridan sent two expeditions into what was known as the northern country. He sent General Custer with the Seventh cavalry from Fort Abraham Lincoln to scout in the north and northwest of the Black Hills and to return through the Black Hills back to his post. At the same time he sent Colonel Anson Mills from the department of the Platte, leaving the Union Pacific railroad at Rawlins, Wyo., on an expedition to scout the Sweetwater country, the Big Horn basin and Big Horn mountain country and to return by way of the Powder river country back to his department. I was sent to guide Colonel Anson Mills' expedition. The two commands, one under Custer and one under Mills, came within communicating distance in eastern Wyoming, on the Powder river, the two commanding officers and scouts meeting and holding a consultation. This country was then comparatively unknown, except to the scouts, hunters and trappers.

Mills marched from Rawlins to Independence Rock, on the Sweetwater river, where he made a supply camp and left his wagons. General Custer continued on through the Black Hills, exploring it in every hole and corner, and then returned to Fort Abraham Lincoln. This meeting of the two commanders was the last time I ever saw the general. It was on Custer's expedition through the Black Hills that the old timers' assertions of its wealth in gold were confirmed and practically demonstrated. Therefore, although the government's intention was to keep out invaders of this section (many of the first being arrested by the military), the efforts were a failure, for the rush became so great as to render it impracticable to arrest it. This brought about irritation on the part of the Indians. During '75 and '76 the whole Dakota nation, the most powerful Indians and their allies, listened to the harangues of Sitting Bull and other medicine men to prepare to go on the warpath, to gather their best horses and secure all the ammunition and long range rifles they could.

General Sheridan, in view of the situation and the gathering of warriors in the northwest, commenced massing the United States troops in the different departments adjacent. General Alfred Terry, who was in command of the department of Dakota and the station at Fort Snelling, was to send the troops in his department to Fort Abraham Lincoln, to take the field from there under the command of General George A. Custer. General John Gibbon, who was in command of the department of Montana, was to take command of the troops in his department, move down the Yellowstone and form a junction with them. General George A. Crook, in command of the department of the Platte, was ordered to take the troops from his department and proceed north by the way of Fort Laramie, Fort Fetterman, old Fort Reno, old Fort Phil Kearny. This latter command was the one I accompanied. It might be mentioned here that during the preparations certain scandals in the construction department of the government, both for army and Indian supplies, had attracted congressional attention and national interest, threatening to besmirch personages closely connected with the powers existing. The investigation coming on, Custer was ordered to Washington to give testimony. This testimony adhered so strictly to the truth that it brought him into disfavor, and when he returned to his post he found that the command of the main expedition was taken from him and that he was assigned to his own regiment simply, while General Terry was ordered to take supreme command. To a soldier with his record, to a man of his sensitiveness, this humiliation was deeply felt, and, no doubt, was one of the many causes that warped his judgment at a time when it was most needed. General Terry showed his sympathy and confidence in him after the Indian trail was discovered, when he ordered him to take his regiment, with ten days' rations, ammunition and private scouts, along with Charlie Reynolds, Bloody Knife and others, and take the trail and follow it. He struck the trail and followed it at a rapid pace on the 23d and 24th of July. At this point the trail left the Rosebud and headed toward the Little Big Horn. As the march had been very rapid, the horses were tired and camp was made, while preparations to start by 2 o'clock in the morning to cross the divide which separated the two streams was determined on.

At 2 o'clock the regiment was again on the move, with the scouts ahead, and by daylight they had crossed the ridge. The command was keeping in the ravine or canyons out of sight and moving as quietly as possible. The scouts in advance came back and reported to General Custer that they had seen tepees, or Indian lodges, which was true; but, as it afterward turned out, the tepees which the scouts had seen were three or four tepees that had been put up for smallpox patients away from the main Indian village.

General Custer divided his command into three parts, taking five companies himself, Major Reno with five companies and Colonel Benteen with two companies, to bring up the rear with the pack train. Major Reno was ordered to march straight on to the Little Big Horn, while Custer would move obliquely off to the right, making a detour of some seven or eight miles and striking the Little Big Horn at what he supposed would be the lower end of the Indian village, while Reno was to strike it from the upper end. Custer was to work up the river and Reno down, while Reno was to keep on coming down the river until he joined with Custer, and Benteen was to follow up with the pack train.

As near as we know, Reno struck the Indians a little before Custer did, and, of course, he, as well as Custer, was surprised at the immense size of the village. There were ten times more Indians in this village than was indicated by the Indian trail which they had been following up the Rosebud. It is a fact that the Indians whom they were following had just at this point and at this time joined the main band of Indians in camp on the Little Big Horn. The principal chiefs among the Indians, of course, were Sitting Bull, Gall, Crazy Horse, Rain-in-the-Face, Little Big Man, Grass and many others.

At first the Indians were taken completely by surprise, for they were so numerous that they had failed to keep scouts out at the usual distance, and Reno's attack was the first that they saw of the soldiers. Reno, instead of charging, held back when he saw the immense numbers in front—his heart, indeed, failed him, and, abandoning audacity, which is the true motto of the cavalryman, though he failed to recognize it at this time, he dismounted to fight on foot. In his first charge he was repulsed, and, as near as I have been able to learn, it was only a weak one, not on account of his officers or men, but it was the lack of faith and confidence in himself that took away the vim and dash that the charge should have had.

Reno, in looking over the situation, preferred defense in preference to attack. He recrossed the Little Big Horn and took up a position on a hill, where he dilly dallied around until the Indians, taking courage at his apparent weakness, made the fight on him all the fiercer. Most of the men that he lost were lost while crossing the Little Big Horn in retreat, so as to get into the bluffs on the east side.

Major Reno, although having a good civil war record, through his indecision in the emergency on this occasion seemed to have completely lost soldierly intelligence. The Indians, as was afterward learned, were completely taken by surprise, and the great war chief, Gall, personally directed the attack on Reno and was making preparations to surround him on the hill evidently unaware of Custer's proximity on the other side of the village. This shows what could have been done had Reno charged onward and kept this greatest of the war chiefs occupied instead of thus permitting him to leave a few men to threaten Reno while he concentrated his warriors on the other side of the village against Custer. A messenger to Benteen from Custer, ordering him to "come on quick and bring the packs," had caused that gallant officer to hasten, but, overtaking Reno, who outranked him, he was ordered to join his demoralized forces and was compelled to obey. The latter thought that the two commands combined, which numbered 400 men, would soon take measures to get into action. But the appeals of such officers as Benteen, Weir, French and others to lead on were without avail.

The last seen of Custer as he started into the ever to be remembered battle of the Little Big Horn was when he went over the ridge and waved his hat in salute to the other commands. Custer, making a wide detour to fall on the rear of the village, or what he thought was the rear, immediately struck a very strong band of Indians led by Chief Gall.

They had crossed the river at a point where they were concealed by a large ravine and got on Custer's flank, and so astute had been Chief Gall's arrangements that he found himself attacked in front and on all sides. Custer's first charge was successful until he saw the immensity of the village. He saw that it was a city instead of a village. There being a high hill a half mile back from the Little Big Horn, Custer decided to take this as a standpoint. He sounded the recall and tried to make this hill. He had to turn his back while doing so. The Indians are never so brave as when they get any one's back to them. On their retreat to the hill half of his men were killed. The rest took up positions, but the Indians, being so elated at killing so many of his men from the Little Big Horn up to the hill and the failure of Reno to attract the Indians continually coming down the Little Big Horn, almost all the fighting Indians concentrated on Custer and fought him to death.

Fighting desperately to gain a point higher up, no doubt, he was, however, compelled to dismount his men and act on the defensive. Unable to advance or retreat and probably unwilling to do so, he must have based his actions on the diversion that the other commands would make. Steadfastly believing this from later Indian accounts, they fought coolly, hoping and expecting for re-enforcements which never came, but succeeded in keeping up the fight for some time. The Indians, well armed and in overwhelming numbers, circling and riding at speed, kept up a continuous and effective fire, while skirmishers and marksmen crawled through the grass, picking off officers. In the meanwhile Reno was still lying on the hill, although they could hear the reports of firearms below, and notwithstanding that Benteen, Weir, French and others continued their appeals and that the echoing volleys cried for assistance he remained there until all was silent, the Indians eventually killing Custer and every one of his gallant band. Reno was kept annoyed by the savages until the arrival of General Terry and Gibbon's command, while on the second day the Indians set fire to the grasses to cover their movements with smoke and drew off. Afterward a visit to the battle scene told the story of Custer's last battle, showing that every one had at least done his duty and, though defeated, was not disgraced. They all died in the proper military formation, every officer at his post and every man in line. Custer's body was found, and, although all the others were mutilated or scalped, his body seemed to have been untouched except by his death wounds, this being a tribute from the savage foe to his courage and gallantry. His brother, Captain Tom, and his brother-in-law, Captain Calhoun, with a nephew, were among the slain, making an unusual family affliction. The bodies of all the officers were found, with the exception of Dr. Lord, Lieutenants Porter, Harrington and Sturgies and some ten men. The latter's fate has never been known—whether they were captured and tortured or whether their bodies had been thrown into the quicksands near the bed of the Little Big Horn, it is not clear, the only certainty being that they were dead. Two hundred and twelve bodies were buried on the hill, the losses to the regiment being in two days 265 killed and 52 wounded. 50 per cent of the command!

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She mixed Sulphur with it to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While, wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. Agents, Redick & Grohman.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

BUTLER'S NEW INDUSTRY

WHAT IT MEANS TO BUTLER.

1. A new local industry.
2. Employment of over 300 men.
3. More business and trade for local merchants in BUTLER COUNTY.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.

1. An opportunity to make money by becoming a FOUNDER in this big new industry, which will revolutionize the making of window-glass.
2. ONE INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY, right at HOME, SAFE and SOUND, where your money can be seen at work all the time.

War and the Window Glass Stock

The probable effect of the present War Conditions on Industrial Stocks and especially on the FUTURE EARNINGS of WINDOW GLASS COMPANIES is very encouraging to the Investing Public at this time.

The present situation of the window glass business is abnormal, there being no window glass stock on hand. The Window Glass Trade Report on November 6th, states that there is not one case of glass on hand or in stock by the manufacturers and orders cannot be taken care of; the domestic as well as foreign trade demand is ever increasing, and the only remedy to the situation is the erection of additional factories to meet the demand.

The Belgians, who controlled a very large percentage of the WINDOW GLASS INDUSTRY before the WAR, are entirely cut off from exports, and the areas of the most populous manufacturing of window glass territory is devastated and occupied by the Germans, so that countries all over the world must come to the United States to purchase their supply of window glass.

Everything points to far greater consumption of Window Glass by this country and Europe during the next few years, and with the enormous profits of this business, investments in Window Glass Stocks should return big dividends.

WAR or PEACE cannot effect this industry.

The TIME to make money is NOW.

The PLACE to Invest is, BUTLER, PENNSYLVANIA.

The BUSINESS is WINDOW GLASS MANUFACTURING and with your assistance and subscription to FOUNDERS SHARES of the MECHANICAL WINDOW GLASS COMPANY, to provide capital for the immediate construction of their factory, success and big dividends are assured.

Statement by Mr. Schueck, Vice Pres. and Gen'l Manager

MECHANICAL WINDOW GLASS COMPANY.

Your esteemed CHAMBER OF COMMERCE has aided us in securing a factory site of 25 acres at EAST BUTLER, PA., where we will erect the most modern window-glass factory in the world, estimated to cost over $400,000.

To provide this amount of capital it becomes necessary for us to sell a part of our capital stock in BUTLER COUNTY, PA., and we therefore take the liberty to address you and appeal for your financial co-operation so that we may have you among our number as founders of this wonderful industry, which will be revolutionized by the installation of our patented machines which materially reduce the cost of operation and increase the output.

Your subscription for a small number of FOUNDERS SHARES AT $25.00 a share. having a Par Value of $50.00 a share is hereby solicited, either for CASH or upon the FOUR PAYMENT LAN as outlined below.

A Committee of stockholders in Butler has been appointed by us to take subscriptions and we trust you will afford this Committee such encouragement and financial support as it will be a great means towards helping us procure the required capital without much delay. Upon request a member of this Committee will call upon you.

We can assure our friends that this company will pay big dividends within a short time, and as a resident you can fully appreciate what another large industry means to BUTLER, and its subsequent increase in business, wealth and population.

Very truly yours,

MECHANICAL WINDOW GLASS COMPANY.
H. L. Schueck, Vice President.

The Manufacture of Window Glass

The present process of manufacturing window glass by other manufacturers is very complicated. After melting the glass in a large tank, they have to ladle them molten glass in a pot, located in a kiln below the blowing machine. The kiln must be kept heated at all times in order to retain heat enough to remelt the leavings of glass left in the pot after the cylinder is finished. Such procedure is very costly for labor and time, entailing also a very large expenditure for gas continually used for heating the kiln.

The DEBAY WINDOW GLASS MACHINE does away with all these operations, saving thousands and thousands of dollars a year. To operate the machines of other manufacturers necessitates skilled labor for the reason that they have two different forces of power to contend with.

FIRST: The power to operate the Blow-Pipe.

SECOND: The power employed to fill the Cylinder, which is air.

This makes it absolutely necessary that the operator of said machine must be a competent engineer, as well as a competent glass man. To become competent for such work takes from one year to fifteen months apprenticeship. With the DEBAY machines we do not depend upon skilled labor, because any boy or man, after three hours of instruction and practice can successfully operate our machine.

Our machine controls a steady motion of blowing the cylinder, which does away with pulsation, cockles or any commonly known window-glass defects, thereby making our glass perfect, and, in fact, equal to plate-glass, and much superior to any glass made by other hand or machine plants.

Organization

The Mechanical Window Glass Company has been organized under the laws of Delaware with an authorized capital of $5000,000 for the manufacture, sale and leasing of the DEBAY Window Glass Machines and the manufacture of Window Glass in case lots to the trade.

A Big Money Maker

Enormous Demand at Recent Prices

Purpose of Stock Issue

CAPITALIZATION: 100,000 Shares, par value $50.00 each $5,000,000

The immediate need and desire of the company is to realize the sum of $500,000 by the sale of its Treasury Stock at $25.00 per share, having a par value of $50.00 a share, so as to provide working capital for the construction and equipment of an up-to-date Window Factory at BUTLER, PA.

Basis of the Business

The distinctive feature of this company is the fact that it has acquired the domestic and foreign patents of Mr. George C. Debay, a Belgium inventor and manufacturer of Window Glass, who has invented a marvelous window glass machine, which enables the company to produce window glass from 25 to 30 percent cheaper than any other Window Glass Manufacturer in the World.

Enormous Savings Accomplished

Other machine glass manufacturers of equal capacity are using from 1,000 to 1,200 pots a year, at an approximate cost of $13.00 each, making a total sum expended of $13,000.00. The life of each pot is about two weeks. Besides pots, about four hundred ladles are used per year, and the cost of each ladle is about $15.00 each, making another sum of $6 000.00. Each such ladle will last five weeks. By the DEBAY machine of window-glass making neither pots or ladles are used. These items, together with the savings of labor incidental thereto, will be the means of paying increased dividends.

A further big saving is accomplished by blowing the cylinder with our machine, as we are able to blow two cylinders of window glass at one time, whereas other manufacturers are only able to blow one cylinder.

Tremendous Profit

The saving in our Blowing Department,
The saving in not using ladles and pots,
The saving in handling ladles and pots,
The saving of gas to remelt the leavings of glass.

The additional labor-saving features accomplished by the use of the DEBAY WINDOW GLASS MACHINE, when collectively considered and combined, reaches such an enormous amount that with the large margin of profit added thereto, gives us ample assurance that besides the payment of substantial dividends a large surplus will be accumulated for the further expansion and development of the business.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS.

It is conservatively estimated that the net profit on each case of window-glass maufactured daily is over $1.25 a case, which amounts to $2,700 daily profits. Figuring 300 working days to a year, the net profit is estimated at $810,000 yearly for one factory, with this output upon an initial investment of $500,000 capital. The profits to be derived from the sale or leasing of the machines upon a royalty basis alone should enable the company to pay substantial dividends for the next seventeen years (when its patents) expire) upon its capital stock.

MANAGEMENT.

DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS.

One of the prominent factors in favor of the future management of the affairs of this company is that the officers are practical glassmen who are prepared to devote their entire time to the development of this business, with all its possible opportunities, and the further fact that their own profits in this enterprise is contingent upon their making it profitable for every stockholder.

It is deliverable to you upon a C. O. D. basis.
Will you pay for it now, or will you return it and later "Knock the other fellow" who saw his opportunity and purchased stock in the Mechanical Window Glass Company, of Butler, Pennsylvania?

CONCLUSION.

No industry in Western Pennsylvania has prospered in the past few years like glass manufacture. The American Window Glass Company, in two years, paid off 70 per cent. back dividends, and indirectly paid 42 per cent. out of 93 per cent. due on American Window Glass Machine (Preferred Stock) for use of its patents. In the fiscal year ended August 25, 1916, the American Window Glass Company reports net income of $3,337,195, against $1,973,616, and net profit after royalties of $1,956,344, against $1,057,550. The Mechanical Window Glass Company is not obliged to disburse any profits towards a royalty account, and together with other savings it should be able to pay big dividends within six months after operations begin. The continuation of the war has resulted in placing of a large amount of export orders, and reports show that 1,500,000 fifty-foot boxes were ordered. With such a demand for window-glass, only the immediate erection of additional factories will solve this great problem of supply and demand.

REVISION OF DRAFT QUOTAS UNDER WAY

NUMBER OF DISTRICTS HAVE COMPLAINED THAT THEIR DISTRIBUTION HAS BEEN UNFAIR.

HARRISBURG, July 31—The revision of the quotas which the districts of Pennsylvania must furnish for the first draft army is progressing rapidly and it is hoped by the officials in charge that the announcement of changes may be made before the end of the week.

Some districts have complained to registration headquarters here that they have not been credited with the enlistments of men in the National Guards of other states. Col. Frank G. Sweeney, in charge of the bureau, announced today that he is in receipt of a communication from Provost Marshal Crowders office saying that the state in which a man chooses to enlist will receive the credit. As an example, several men in York county enlisted in Maryland regiments. Maryland will get the credit for the enlistments and the districts in Maryland in which the men enlisted will receive like credits. Many men in the northern tier counties of Pennsylvania enlisted in New York state and that state under the ruling will receive the credits.

You can coax the nerves into doing things which they should do, but you cannot force them into doing anything. So in leading from sickness to health, harsh methods, forcing treatment, will not cure. Severe medicines make the nerves rebel. Opiates are deadly and disastrous. Nerve doctoring properly undertaken is followed by the most gratifying results. Nerve doctoring of an improper character aggravates the existing complaint. Dr. Barnes' treatment gets right at the seat of the disease of the nerves. His remedies begin where help is demanded. They free the blood of impurities. They act on the kidneys so that these organs are enabled to strain the impurities out of the system; they tone up the stomach and assist it to digest more food and digest it more thoroughly. They act on the liver and coax this great organ to make better blood and last of all they act on the nerves themselves and soothe, quiet and restore them to healthy action.

MATTHEW SANDS HAS MESSAGE FOR HIS FELLOW VETS

SAYS NERV-WORTH MADE HIS NERVES AS STRONG AS IN THE OLD WAR DAYS.

In source and character this is one of the most remarkable statements ever made in behalf of a medicine:

"My system was in a run-down condition and I had no color in my cheeks and hardly any blood. I was sick all the time. Couldn't eat anything, hardly as much as an infant. My nerves were completely gone.

"I served in Yankee army for four years and my nerves are as good now at 75 as they were then at 20 BECAUSE I TOOK NERV-WORTH. My wife was in a worse condition than I. She has taken Nerv-Worth too and it has greatly improved her health. For five years I was sick and I am very much the same now as I was 50 years ago. Can eat anything. (Nerv-Worth) helps digestion wonderfully. Could gladly recommend it to my old soldier friends, who fought with me in the Civil war.

ministration.

After the failure to arrive at a conclusion on the war committee, senators suggested to representatives that conferees on both sides report to their houses that they had agreed on the bill except in this particular.

"No; we will report on everything or nothing," said the house conferees. So further discussion was postponed until tomorrow.

if, in fact, the marriage was contracted solely with intent to evade the performance of military duty."

"If necessary," said Secretary Baker today, "we will ask the President to so amend the regulations to get at these slackers. If that is not enough, we may ask congress for further legislation on this subject."

The provost marshall general's office today showed it was alive to the large numbers of exemptions claimed. It instructed each local board to continue calling up men until it had ten per cent more to examine than originally allotted.

Wild Geese in Flight.

It has been noticed that when flocks of wild ducks and geese have to go long distances, they form a triangle to cleave the air more easily, and the most courageous bird takes position at the forward angle. As this is a very fatiguing post, other birds in turn take the place of the exhausted leader.

ROSECRUCIANS GATHER TODAY IN PITTSBURGH

IS FIRST CONVENTION IN UNITED STATES OF SOCIETY TO STUDY ARTS AND SCIENCES.

By International News Service.

PITTSBURGH, July 31—The first convention of the Ancient and Mystical Order of Rosecrucians ever held in the United States began its sessions here today. Delegates were present from twenty-five states. H. Spencer Lewis, of New York, imperator of the order in America, presided over the convention, which will continue for five days.

This organization, which has more than 6,000,000 members in Europe and the Orient, was not established in the United States until two years ago. During the official sessions the first working constitution for the American order will be adopted. It is claimed for the Rosecrucians that the order antedates every other known organization in the world by many centuries. It is a secret order for the study and development of ancient sciences and arts and makes a feature of educational work and scientific investigation.

Druggists Save Jars To Help in Canning

PITTSBURGH, July 31—Druggists of the Pittsburgh district are doing their bit in connection with the state food conservation campaign by saving their soda fountain fruit syrup jars which are being forwarded to the new penitentiary in Center county and to other state institutions. They will be used in the canning of beans, peas, corn and other vegetables from the state farms. The products will be used in feeding prisoners and inmates of state institutions next winter. The jars are too large for domestic purposes, but are ideal for the institutions. The collection is being made by the war farms gardening commission, which is also distributing canning supplies and garden spraying solutions.

War Affords Women Reporters a Chance

HARRISBURG, July 31—The world war is beginning to have its effect on Harrisburg newspapers and male reporters are becoming scarce articles. One paper, after making many efforts to secure men from other towns, was forced to turn to women. Now one has been engaged to do general assignment work and others will follow. This is the first time a Harrisburg paper has employed women except to cover social work.

CLEVELAND, July 31—Fourteen persons are dead tonight and more than a score of others were prostrated as a result of the heat wave here today. The mercury registered 104 at 3 p. m.

PITTSBURGH, July 31—Eleven deaths were reported today as being caused by the heat wave. The temperature soared to 92 degrees, equalling the high mark of the summer. One of the victims became crazed by the heat and committed suicide.

WASHINGTON, July 31—More than 150 members of the officers' training camp at Fort Myer, Va., are in the hospital as a result of the intense heat.

Washington got her first real smash of summer heat today. From cabinet officials to negro porters, Washington sweltered.

The weather bureau took its temperature in the pretty little park out toward Georgetown, where its headquarters are, and reported 99 as the highest temperature, about 5 o'clock this afternoon. But at that time thermometers registered 109 in the shade.

The church is at present in a flourishing condition and free from debt. It has been the mother of three churches in the surrounding country, namely, St. Mary's, of Parker's Landing; St. Anthony's, of Harrisville, and the church at Argentine.

The present membership of the parish is 33 families and 120 souls. The members of the present church council are James A. Murrin, George V. Jamison and Daniel J. Kelly.

The pastor and the committee in charge of the jubilee celebration extend an invitation to the people of the community to attend. Everybody welcome.

EACH COUNTY TO BE RED CROSS CHAPTER

REORGANIZATION IS EXPECTED TO GREATLY FACILITATE THE WORK OF STATE SOCIETY.

PITTSBURGH, July 31—With word from Washington that Pennsylvania is to be established as a complete division of the thirteen into which the United States is divided by the American Red Cross, arrangements are being made by the State Advisory Board to organize Pennsylvania into one big working unit.

Chairman J. Rogers Flannery, of the Pittsburgh chapter, is chairman of the advisory board. In a communication received from him in Washington Mr. Flannery says it is the intention of the board to have each county in the state made a separate chapter of the Red Cross. These county organizations, he says, will have supervision of all the auxiliaries and branches within the political boundaries of the county. Reports will be made each month by the county organizations to the board, which will be in close touch always with the officers of the Pennsylvania division. By this method, Mr. Flannery says, Pennsylvania will know at all times the exact status of her chapters and can tell instantly how much finished material is on hand for emergency shipments to the army or the navy. Through co-operation with the state government it is intended also to keep records of all enlisted men who go from the state so that the Red Cross may, through its intelligence bureau, keep the families of enlisted men informed as to the whereabouts of the latter when they are reported wounded or lost.

The Formative Years.

In the Woman's Home Companion a writer says: "Fathers must realize, as well as mothers, that the first five years of the child's life are the most important in the child's development. It is then that he is most formative, most impressionable; it is then that he needs most serious and careful thought from both parents. And if the child is properly handled through this period, half the battles of the future man in the child are won."
